New things for old . . . band uniforms, bright and neat . . . the auditorium, attractive and clean . . . students crowding around coke machines . . . bewildered freshmen wandering here and there—all these things are now a part of Central. Through the theme . . . "What's New?" . . . the Echo Staff has tried to present to you a true picture of school life with emphasis on the many new additions to our school.

You . . . and you . . . have cooperated to make this book. From classrooms, clubs, and study halls have come your stories and pictures. We hope you will like this book; you all have helped to make it.

Central's Pride . . . the new auditorium.

Miss Currie presents "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay."

CENTRAL'S AUDITORIUM, dedicated in December of 1947, is the best in the city. Finally built after the old auditorium was considered past repair. Central's new auditorium has many excellent qualities. One cannot pick out one thing about the auditorium that is outstanding, because everything in it is outstanding. The red seats are about as comfortable as auditorium seats can be made. It is a pleasure to sit out a three-hour play in them; whereas, in the old seats it was a marathon contest. The seats are placed so that each row is higher than the one preceding it. Every student gets a good view of what's going on. Naturally, the auditorium has a loud speaker system, but this is not absolutely necessary, considering the fine acoustics. Everything that goes on "up front" is easily heard in the back. Another outstanding feature of the "aud" is the lighting system. The lighting is indirect, and many fine effects can be obtained by varying the color of the lights. The auditorium has many other fine qualities, too . . . modern design, beautiful color scheme, new curtains, and a spacious stage. The "aud" is indeed "Central's Pride."

DEDICATION

Who is your favorite character in "The Tale of Two Cities?" Yes, one of Miss Currie's tenth grade English classes is having a breakfast discussion. What could be more interesting? Perhaps the dramatics class, buzzing with excitement.

"On stage everybody . . . it's the first act! Project, I can't hear you under the balcony!" Miss Currie exclaims.

Then to the school kitchen, where odors of fresh popcorn seep out. Miss Currie's homeroom is selling it to raise money for CARE packages.

And so . . . in appreciation of your twenty-six years of service at Central High School, we dedicate this 1949 Echo to you, Miss Agnes Currie. Your tireless efforts in providing fine plays for Central shall always be remembered.

MISS AGNES CURRIE

The faculty, not to be outdone by the "new" objects of interest at Central, presented the school with eleven new faces on the teaching staff this year.

A new point system was adopted to select top-ranking students . . . Result: decrease in honor roll.

Executing the usual duties . . . teaching, advising classes and clubs, supervising student teachers, chaperoning school dances, preparing special reports . . . all add up to a full year for the teachers. The gay, relaxing Christmas party and vacation brought a breathing spell before settling down for the last, long, tough semester, which proves to be hard on the faculty as well as the students! Topping a year filled with both trying and pleasing events, faculty members attended their annual spring picnic held at the bird sanctuary.

Administration

Due to the untiring efforts of MR. GEORGE E. SHAW, principal, Central High has maintained its ultimate goal of harmonious and well-balanced school system. He has offered a helping hand and a friendly word of advice to anyone in need of his council.

Superintendent of the Superior Public School System, MR. ANGUS B. ROTHWELL, with a winning smile and cheerful ways, has diligently executed his duties as the administration leader. Central High, as well as the other public schools in Superior, have benefited from his wisdom and experience in the education field.

MR. VERNER ANDERSON, known to everyone for his pleasant smile and affable ways, is the dean of boys at Central. His vocational guidance to many young men has been of great importance to them. Every problem presented to Mr. Anderson is handled with fairness and understanding.

MISS ALICE LOMOE is dean of freshmen and sophomore girls. She helps them plan programs for their first two years at Central and advises them on individual problems. Her gracious personality has helped her gain many friends. Also, Miss Lomoe is a teacher in the language arts department.

MISS MINNIE RASMUSSEN, dean of the 11th and 12th grade girls, has won the confidence and respect of all girls through her kindness and interest in them. Among her administrative duties, she offers wise guidance in program planning and adjusting to meet the student's interests and needs. Miss Rasmussen carries out her counseling duties cheerfully and efficiently.

Students' woes, endless questions, and the hustle and bustle of office life . . . these problems greet MISS RUTH SWAIN, attendance clerk, MISS MARION ELLISON, secretary to the principal, and MISS MARY ELLEN STUART, assistant treasurer. Central's business machine is kept in good running order by these ambitious girls.

MR. CHARLES ANEDA is a newcomer at Central, but with his pleasing personality he has made himself well liked by everyone. Mr. Aneda teaches ninth grade English and enjoys his work. His students enjoy him, too, because of his sense of humor. As for extra-curricular activities, Mr. Aneda was an adviser to the Radio Commission and the chairman of the Senior Pageant Committee.

"Indispensable" is the word that is associated with MISS LAURA BARDON. Besides her classes in English and German, she gives guidance tests to assist students in their choice of courses or future vocations. This proves to be a great help to the students. As adviser of the Coquina Club, Miss Bardon has done a wonderful job.

Freshman choir, Melodeers, Harmonizers — MISS LILLIAN BERG'S creations are composed of members hailing from all Superior schools. At Central she teaches music and math. Reading notes and studying the various types of music are stressed and her aim is to teach students "to love and enjoy good music." Secret tip: Miss Berg likes baking, cooking, playing the organ, and traveling.

Petiteness and friendliness combined describe MISS EDITH BJORKMAN. Although she has completed but one year at Central, her pleasing ways are well known throughout the student body. Her daily schedule consists of junior and sophomore English classes as well as first and second year Latin classes. Central was fortunate to add another pleasant teacher to its faculty.

Quadrilaterals are one of the many phases of plane geometry taught by MISS ESTHER CALESON. Besides teaching geometry, Miss Caleson has classes in algebra and general mathematics. Before graduation in June, she can be found in the wardrobe room, helping fit seniors in caps and gowns. Miss Caleson was co-adviser for the annual Mothers' Day Tea.

"Give it all you've got," is a familiar saying of COACH HARRY CONLEY at football practice. Coach Conley is the man behind Central's football machines which have impressed eager fans through the years. Besides being football coach, Mr. Conley also assumes the duties of Athletic Director of Superior public schools. He is the S Club adviser.

The clatter of dishes, the whirl of an eggbeater, and the hum of sewing machines can be heard from MISS BERNICE CORNELL'S cooking and sewing classes. She offers courses in home management with such problems of everyday living as meal planning studied. Her classes consist of junior and senior girls with one group of "domestic" boys. Miss Cornell manages the school cafeteria.

Another newcomer to Central this year is MR. MARVIN CROWLEY, who is in the Social Science Department. In addition to his classes, Mr. Crowley is active in the athletic program. He could frequently be found in the gymnasium or on the football field giving advice, for he coached the freshman football and basketball teams.

The houselights are dimmed, the curtain rises, and the play begins . . . this action brings to mind MISS AGNES CURRIE. A favorite among the student body as well as the faculty, Miss Currie stimulates enthusiasm in others for the numerous projects she undertakes. Aside from teaching dramatics, she has tenth grade English classes. She served on several extra-curricular committees.

MISS MARY DAHLBERG is a welcomed addition to Central High School's faculty. She enjoys her job of teaching English to sophomores and juniors. Miss Dahlberg commented, "I find very interesting people in my classes." She could be found every Tuesday in the council room, for she was co-adviser of the student government group.

"Comment allez-vous?" "Je vais bien, merci." This is part of a familiar conversation that is heard in MISS MARY ELLIOTT'S French class. Translated it means "How are you?" "I am fine, thank you." Miss Elliott's classes consist of English, Spanish, and French. She told the students many interesting stories about her recent trip to England as an exchange teacher.

Numbers, geometric forms, and more numbers . . . these are all found in the everyday work of MR. HORACE GLEW, teacher of mathematics and book-keeping at Central. Mr. Glew holds the position of school treasurer. He has charge of the book room, also. When asked about hobbies, he said that outdoor sports appealed most to him.

With the secret ambition "to run a greenhouse" and with hobbies including gardening, fishing, and curling, MR. ROBERT GRADIN, congenial biology teacher, is a lively conversationalist and an interesting subject. Not only does Mr. Gradin teach biology, but he advises the S. O. S. Club.

"Let 'er roll!" . . . are the words of Mr. GEORGE HARDING that can be heard by his boys after final corrections have been made in the Devil's Pi. Mr. Harding instructs printing in four courses — first through fourth year. He also has the job of mechanical and business adviser of the Pi.

MISS MARY HATHAWAY'S highly interesting American history classes are looked forward to by many students. Maps, American Observers, and historical pictures are always in evidence in Room 337. Miss Hathaway served this year on the graduation cap and gown, cheerleader, pep rally, and DAR committees.

MR. MAURICE HENNESSY, who teaches the freshmen general science, has been teaching school for thirty-one years. Mr. Hennessy, whose hobbies are fishing and hunting, is the faculty manager of the football team. Surprisingly enough, his secret ambition is to be 6 feet 2 inches tall.

Teaching newcomers at Central general science is MR. LEROY JACOBSEN. As Student Council adviser, he initiates and directs many of their activities. Little "pep" talks to boost school spirit and to enlist the cooperation of students are associated with dynamic Mr. Jacobsen. A lover of outdoor life, he enjoys fishing, hunting, and gardening.

"First you take your dissecting knife and cut through here. Then . . ." These directions could be heard by the biology students in MR. J. R. JACOBSON'S classes during a laboratory assignment. Mr. Jacobson, who heads the science department, served on the American Education Week committee this year.

A hubbub of activity characterizes the journalism classes of MRS. BETTY JONES, for students are busy planning, gathering, and writing material for the two publications—the Devil's Pi and Echo. Journalism is offered both as class work for credit and as an extra-curricular activity. Mrs. Jones also teaches Current Literature.

Future homemakers of MISS LOIS KASMAR'S home economics classes have learned important fundamentals in domestic science. Color, design, and line . . . all must be considered before attempting creations in sewing. Studying the contents of food, planning and cooking meals are undertaken in the foods course. Miss Kasmark has charge of ninth grade girls.

MR. WILLIAM KELLER is the able director of the Orchestra and the String Ensemble. In addition to his duties at Central, Mr. Keller spends afternoons instructing the string sections of Superior State College and McCaskill School orchestras. Mr. Keller is a skilled violinist who performed at the Parents' Night Reception and Christmas programs.

"Let's get on the ball!" This advice could be heard by MR. JOHN KROCK'S students during the past year, as he encouraged them to carry out their work. Mr. Krock, a newcomer to Central, teaches mathematics and general metal shop. Aside from these classes, he is a member of the faculty finance committee.

MR. ROBERT LANE, teacher of social studies, has been teaching this subject for several years, but his secret ambition is to do research work. Counted among his enjoyable pastimes are woodworking, fishing, and reading. His interest in music . . . he enjoys singing . . . gives him much pleasure.

If you should wander into MISS ALICE LOMOE'S room during class hours, you would see a group of sophomore students diligently writing themes or learning their "verbs and pronouns." Along with teaching sophomore English, she is dean of ninth and tenth grade girls and adviser to the Booster club.

A familiar and well liked person at Central is MISS IRENE MCGILL. She is a member of the Social Science Department in which she teaches world history. Although she is busy teaching history, she is always willing to lend a hand at other activities. Among them is serving on the faculty finance committee.

"All right now . . . in the key of C." This is frequently heard in MR. LOUIS MEIER'S music room. Mr. Meier directs the Junior and Senior Choirs, the Triple Trio, and the Vocal Ensemble. His groups took part in two concerts, one at Christmas, the other in the spring.

Popular Homeroom 129 is MR. RENE MOE'S. In his physics classes, students heard him ask such questions as "What is the difference between forced vibration and sympathetic vibration?" Besides teaching physics, Mr. Moe is the Visual Aids adviser. Not only does he supervise film projection but also the use of the sound equipment.

English is automatically associated with MISS HELEN O'BRIEN, who has taught many students at Central. You always can find her giving freshmen advice on correct usage in sentence structure, capitalization, punctuation, and other fundamentals, as well as discussing selections in literature texts or examining suitable books for library reading. Miss O'Brien advises the L. D. P. Club.

"Boys, you're doing fine, but . . ." is a familiar saying of COACH NORMAN OLSON during the half of any basketball game. Coach Olson is the man behind Central's basketball brigade. This is Mr. Olson's third year at the Viking helm. He also teaches physical education and is the assistant football coach.

New to Central is MR. WARREN PETERS, who has won the popularity of commercial students by giving them helpful assistance and constructive advice. Mr. Peters teaches first year typing and shorthand. In addition to commercial work, he helped plan the guidance day program.

"Take a letter" are words typifying MR. ROY PETERSON'S secretarial classes. Mr. Peterson teaches office typing and secretarial practice and personal typing. During sixth hour he goes into the mimeograph room to prepare tests, maps, and other material for the school. He also served on the faculty finance committee and is manager of the music department.

MISS MINNIE RASMUSSEN, who teaches English to juniors, can be heard entering her class reciting a few verses of beautiful poetry . . . Emerson, Bryant, or Frost. American literature and the fundamentals of English are the chief elements of study for junior English classes. Creative writing is undertaken in this course, also.

MISS MARGARET REHNSTRAND, senior class co-chairman, teaches four years of art. Art 1 students are taught an understanding of art as a whole: the underlying structure common to all forms of art—design and color—and art applying to everyday living. Advanced art requires Art 1 and is planned to meet the needs of students who have special ability.

The humorous atmosphere of MR. JOSEPH SCHMIDT'S five English classes is enjoyed by eleventh and twelfth graders alike. His pupils have been heard to say that he can make even grammar interesting. Mr. Schmidt is the Hi-Y Club adviser besides serving on the student social and Echo editorial committees.

"Crescendo, louder, that's it. Now come in on the fourth beat on page eight." What goes on? It's MR. S. BRINLEY SHAW rehearsing the Senior Band. He also directs the Junior Band and gives instrumental lessons at Central and in other Superior schools. Mr. Shaw is a genial person who has a friendly smile for everyone.

Always busy and always prepared to lend a helping hand best describe MR. JOSEPH SITEK. A peek at his busy schedule would find him in charge of four chemistry classes and a course in photography. Along with teaching, Mr. Sitek is responsible for all school photography and is adviser to the Shuttermen Club and the Echo Photographers.

MISS MARGARET SPIELMACHER, head of the mathematics department, is a resourceful teacher whose wide experience in school affairs makes her an excellent one from whom to seek advice. Miss Spielmacher initiated and directs the annual college day, a guidance activity. High standards are maintained in her algebra and advanced mathematics courses.

MISS SELMA SWANSTROM, a new Central teacher, began the year in her social science classes with "Superior" as the main subject of discussion. At this time, Miss Swanstrom conducted the students on tours to various business concerns. Her students also became acquainted with the city's form of government. Assisting in play production, she designed and made many costumes.

Attending to the literary interests at Central is MRS. LILLIAS TEPOORTEN. Although new to the school this year, she has made many friends through her cheerful smile and willingness to assist all who seek her advice. Through simple regulations, which must be kept by everyone, a tidy and orderly atmosphere was maintained in the library.

The exhilarating atmosphere of MISS GRETA TETZLER'S American history classes is enjoyed by all of her students. In addition to teaching history, Miss Tetzler is the popular adviser of the Athenae Club. She also has served on the pep rally, cheerleader, and student social committees.

To enrich the girls' athletic program, MRS. MARION THOMPSON added soccer, archery, and tumbling. In her physical education classes, she also directs dancing, softball, basketball, and shuffle board. Mrs. Thompson is adviser of the cheerleaders and twirlers and co-chairman of the Girls' Athletic Association.

MR. VICTOR URSIN teaches drafting, a universal language, in four courses. These courses include sheet metal, architectural, and machine drafting. He is also well known to seniors for his work on the caps and gowns committee, and he took active part on the committee for "American Education Week." He supervised the activities of the Prop Busters, a model airplane club, which met every Wednesday evening.

MR. MICHAEL VERICH completed his first year as a problems of democracy teacher at Central. Theme writing and lively discussions were among the interesting activities carried on in "Probs." Besides his regular teaching duties, Mr. Verich was assigned to the faculty social and intramural sports committees and served as senior class co-adviser.

A buzzing of saws and the humming of lathes indicate to Centralites that they are nearing MR. MORTON WADD'S woodworking shop. Mr. Wadd teaches woodshop in four courses. Outside of his classes, Mr. Wadd assists in constructing stage scenery for the plays and other programs throughout the year. He served on the school safety committee.

The lovely Christmas decoration adorning our school entrance was the work of MR. TONY YAWORSKI and the stagecraft and display class. Mr. Yaworski teaches commercial art, art craft, stagecraft and display. The Craft Club adviser also supervises noon recreation and carries his art hobby outside of the class, doing illustrations and murals.

The attractive bulletin boards in MR. NORMAN ZIEMANN'S room gives one some idea of the fascinating projects pursued in problems of democracy classes under his instruction. Mr. Ziemann's full program of extra-curricular activities included directing debate and speech work and advising the Echo business staff and Radio Commission.

IN MEMORIAM

*The softest voice, the busy hands,
The gentleness and grace . . .
The logic of the mind . . . the light
That brightened up a face.*

Her voice is silent. The busy hands that worked so faithfully at Central for twenty-eight years are at rest.

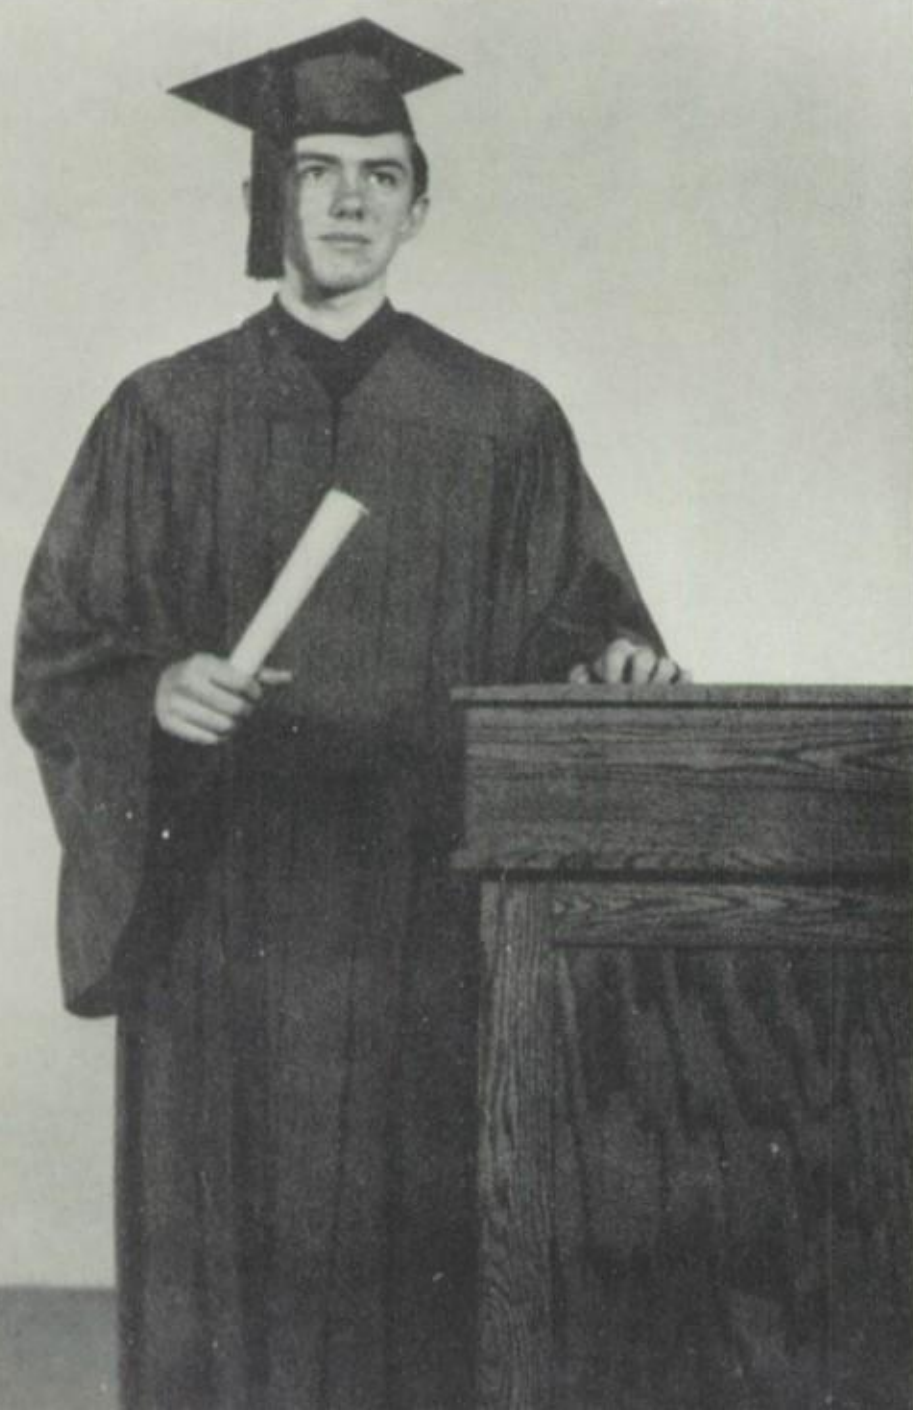

With the tragic accident of last spring, Mrs. Lillie Peters has been taken from our midst.

Gone, but not forgotten, her kindness and understanding, will live forever in the hearts of not only her commercial students but all those who were fortunate to know her even slightly.

Behold a brilliant new year with fresh new graduates, too . . . seniors in caps and gowns, to them a symbol of their faith in the future. Left behind them are treasured memories of the years at Central . . . some filled with gaiety and laughter, others with a serious striving to make every moment a step nearer the ultimate goal. Central, with its wide field for individual attainment in three divisions . . . college entrance, commercial, general . . . and with its annual College Day, has given to the 1949 graduating class every opportunity to forge ahead both in the present and the future.

Those who are left behind must hold high the mighty torch of achievement and go forward to take their place as seniors in future graduation days.

Seniors Finally Celebrate...

Dolores Larson, senior art student, applies the finishing touches to her Christmas diorama in the library.

Practicing for the pageant, sending out invitations for commencement, fitting caps and gowns, buying new graduation clothes . . . these senior activities contributed to the crowded schedule during the closing weeks of school.

Guidance Day, Costume Day, the Senior Mothers' Tea, and the Senior Class Play, planned and carried out with efficiency and care, are memorable events.

In the hustle and bustle of all these affairs, the seniors took time out to prepare for the Baccalaureate service and then for the grand finale. Commencement. Scene of the final gathering was the large gymnasium crowded with the families of the 1949 graduates.

Sipping cokes while planning senior activities are chairmen Gladys Groven, Dick Germond, Dolores Koski, Nancy Steen, and Dorothy Johnson.

Roles in "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" are portrayed by seniors, standing, Joanna Scott, Ray Haugh, Barbara Andrews, Jack Josephson; seated, Lorraine Anderson, Joe Gustafson.

Mulling over "probs" are Mr. Ziemann, Betty Burns, Edith Moe, and Dale Ingvaldson.

Coke machines, shining and new, provided ample refreshment for thirsty freshmen. Looking back over the first few weeks . . . freshmen wandering aimlessly from room to room, doubtlessly lost to Central's many baffling corridors. But that day has past . . . they have learned the ropes and are full-fledged, proud Centralites.

Busy as bees . . . settling down to a second year of high school . . . the sophomores were right up there plugging. Greatest activities of sophomore year . . . accepting club bids and becoming more active mixers in school affairs.

Eagerness and perfection in planning aptly describes the energetic junior class. Spring . . . bringing the annual Junior-Senior Prom . . . leaving memories of the most treasured social event of the year.

Underclassmen look forward to the time left at Central, and we salute them . . . the graduates of tomorrow!

Sponsoring Prom Affair

Chuck Chellman illustrates history lesson for Joyce Andrews, Ray Gvora, and Arlene Sanders.

A well planned prom was the work of Don Skudstad, general chairman, Glen Reed, Dean Meinke, Lola Hemming, Archie Higgins, and Herbert Hemmila.

Junior-Senior prom, class officer elections, prom king election . . . these activities were undertaken by the junior class. Main event of the year for the juniors was sponsoring the prom, held May 27. Under the general chairmanship of Donald Skudstad, the annual formal event was the closing dance on the social calendar for the 1949 school year. President James Nelson appointed committees which carefully planned and carried out every detail necessary to assure the success of this colorful affair. Campaigning for class officers and prom king provided lively activities, too. Miss Mary Elliott and Mr. Tony Yaworski served as junior class advisers.

A vision appears of youthful grandeur and finesse, combined with the shining faces of the band members, illuminating their pride in the superb new band uniforms . . . much desired, long awaited, proudly accepted!

Clubs and organizations completed a very favorable year . . . sponsored many leading school events. Central is proud of the willing efforts of the different groups to promote better social contacts, citizenship, and school spirit throughout the year.

Smooth school dances, given by the clubs . . . teas, building up better relations with faculty members as well as among students . . . inspiring concerts, lively pep assemblies . . . several fine plays, given by Miss Currie's dramatic classes . . . student council activities and numerous other enjoyable events: these bring to light, in memory and record, an excellent year in the social pattern.

Dear Bob, know how
I don't like it in to well, but you lot fun with me. Lot
I luck. Yours
Helen

ATHENAE CLUB

"Sleepy Time Gal," alias Barb Durst, serves as "emcee" at Athenae pep assembly.

Couples crowd the dance floor as the "Make Believe" dance gets underway.

Pastel angoras, bright woolens, steadies sporting sweater sets . . . this typifies the annual sweater dance which was given by the Athenae club on February 18, this year.

Along with the dance the girls promoted an extremely rousing pep assembly before the first East-Central basketball game.

December brought the tea for the club members' mothers and a decorative Christmas theme was carried throughout the Coolidge Room where this tea was held.

Although the club assembled at several other social gatherings, the outstanding event of the year was the dinner in spring for graduating members, which brought all activities to a successful conclusion.

Club officers this year were: Delores Jacobson, president; Barbara Durst, vice president; Eleanor Warn, secretary; Gladys Carlson, treasurer; Dorothy Johnson, scribe; Mary Maynard, chaplain.

Miss Greta Tetzler completed her second year as adviser to this group.

BOOSTER CLUB

Tapering Christmas trees, mistletoe, holly wreaths, soft music . . . all help to bring to mind the Boosters' annual Christmas dance.

Their social calendar opened with the freshman tea, which was given in September, and, as always, the dance highlighted the holiday season.

Fifteen sophomores became Boosters last February after an informal initiation, followed by a formal banquet given at the Martin Tea Rooms.

Jeannine Erickson, as "Saint Peter," and her fifteen little angels, portraying the players, provided the students with their first basketball pep assembly.

The Boosters took top honors this year, not only in winning first prize with their homecoming float, but with their candidate, Barbara Meteraud, reigning as queen during the Viking Day activities.

Other important dates included a trip to Minneapolis, informal teas, several closed dances, the Mothers' Day tea, and the annual senior banquet.

Jeannine Erickson watches over her little angels at the annual Booster pep assembly.

At the "good grooming" tea, Barb Meteraud pours for Myra Handlovsky and Ann Russell.

COQUINA CLUB

Coquinas serve tea to new students.

Teas, initiation, jewelry project, spring dance . . . the Coquinas have been busier than ever this year.

The faculty tea, with Miss Mary Elliott back to us from England as guest of honor, was deemed a success. Then came April, soft spring colors, and sweet music . . . memories of the lovely spring dance sponsored by the club. Flashy gold cuff-links, flower-like shell earrings and pins were sold by Coquina members and liked by all. A mothers' tea and the senior dinner topped off an outstanding year under the guidance of Miss Laura Bardon, who has completed her third year as adviser of the club.

An interesting fact is the origin of the name, "Coquina:" it is a combination of Latin and Spanish, meaning shell or shellfish. The English meaning . . . a soft, light, whitish stone formed of broken shells and corals.

Float sign is displayed.

Attractive, appropriate . . . describes the fine scenery on the stage. Thank the Craft Club members, for they are the behind-the-scene workers whose talents and efforts provide our scenery.

This year, the club designed, built, painted, and set up the stage scenery for dramatics class plays, the Senior class play, the Christmas Concert, and Commencement. It also gave valuable assistance to the committees for the Junior-Senior Prom.

The purpose of the Craft Club is to give those students at Central who are interested an opportunity to express themselves through stagecraft.

The officers are as follows: Lawrence Karsky, president; Ford Malone, vice-president; Ray Kendall, secretary; Ruth Huebscher, treasurer; Lloyd Krob, sergeant-at-arms. Membership is open to all students, who may join by signing up with Mr. Tony Yaworski, club adviser.

Ruth Huebscher and Peggy Warcup lend artistic assistance in constructing scenery.

Mr. Tony Yaworski supervises while Ruth Huebscher and Lloyd Krob add finishing touches.

A filibuster, Tom?

Debaters discuss tactics.

Lengthy discussions, discarded papers, magazines, stacks of notes . . . bring to mind the Debate Club of Central High School.

To "speak the speech . . . trippingly on the tongue" is the ultimate aim of all debate students. The debate team received work of a specialized nature, aimed at developing skill in organizing speech materials as well as developing a pleasing style of speaking.

The debate squad, coached by Mr. Norman Ziemann, also attempted to stimulate interest in public speaking and debate on subjects of universal interest. The activities consisted of participating in debates both within the group and with schools from the surrounding area. Members also took part in the Wisconsin debate tournament.

Much was learned by all . . . and the winning ways of Central's debaters once again brought them well deserved praise.

 Second row: Baker, Wigren, Rasmussen, Bardsley, Handlovsky, Josephson, York, Drinkwine, treasurer, Byrne, Stromquist, Roatch, Krob, Van Horn, Thomson, Haugh, Miss Currie, adviser.

Girls, glamour, giggles, greasepaint . . . these ingredients blend to provide the theatrical background against which the activities of the Thespian Club members, under the able direction of Miss Agnes Currie, are carried on. Sixty students earned membership in this honor group. All phases of dramatics—acting, applying make-up, costuming, and constructing stagecraft—receive the attention and interest of the members.

During the year several plays were presented, among which were "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," "Catch That Thief," and "Great Expectations." For the youngsters in the grade schools, the Thespians gave "The Three Little Pigs."

Every year an honor student, one who has gone farthest in dramatics, becomes a Gold Star Thespian. This year Dick Germond was selected for this honor.

Layout, copy, dummy, captions, offset process, and deadlines . . . these are words of knowledge to the Echo staff and strictly essential to making the Echo a yearbook that will be treasured in years to come. Writing personals for the senior section and colorful copy for the entire book, as well as planning picture schedules, were also a part of each day's activities.

This 1949 Echo bears the traces of eager hands and hearts working together to make it truly a book to remember. Mrs. Betty Jones is adviser to the Echo staff.

Clean living, clean thinking, and wholesome fellowship among high school boys . . . these are the idealistic aims promoted by the members of the Hi-Y. Meetings were held every Monday night and featured round table discussions on topics of current interest to high school students.

Activities for the year included a float in the homecoming parade, several closed dances held in the Coolidge Room, an annual all-school dance, and of course, the spring outing.

Mr. Joseph Schmidt is club adviser. Club officers were: Dick Ohvall, president; Jack Kylo, vice president; Earl Rockstad, sergeant-at-arms.

Throughout the year, the Shuttermen endeavored to promote interest in photography by sponsoring a contest. Members obtained valuable information through experience in applying the photographer's skills.

Social activities for the year included formal and informal initiations along with numerous parties and outings. Candy sales were also held.

Mr. Joseph Sitek served as adviser.

In the fall, a delegation consisting of three officers and one council member attended the Wisconsin Council Convention at Wauwatosa. At this meet, Fred Thomson was elected vice-president of the Wisconsin student councils.

Yes, it has been a busy year for Central and its council students. Mr. LeRoy Jacobsen and Miss Mary Dahlberg served as co-advisers.

The Junior Red Cross, under the direction of Miss Alice Lomoe, made its annual membership drive. Central had almost 100 per cent participation, with candy sales in various homerooms adding a little more money to the project.

Just another thought . . . with the theme, "Don't Waste What Others Want," additional boxes for children overseas were filled by the students this year.

Mellow candlelight . . . soft music . . . gay chatter . . . yes, the LeRoy Doleysh Post's closed dance is underway! This annual event of the club was held in the Coolidge Room. Members agreed that it was loads of fun!

Meetings held once, and frequently twice, a month . . . busy L. D. P.'ers scurrying here and there . . . candy sales . . . the all important Senior banquet . . . loads of fun, loads of work . . . that's the L. D. P.

Have you ever wondered how the L. D. P. got its name? It was named after LeRoy Doleysh, once a principal in the Superior school system. Mr. Doleysh founded the club.

Members of LeRoy Doleysh Post are American Legion award winners, chosen in the eighth grade.

Guiding the members this year were: Glen Reed, president; Ila Rae Waseen, vice-president; Arlene Sanders, secretary; and Marion McGinnis, treasurer. Miss Helen O'Brien is the adviser.

Joanne and Theresa are ready for second hour announcements.

"Good morning! Here are your announcements for today!" These are the famous, well spoken words of the Radio Commission. Each morning after first hour, the announcements for the day are read to inform students of forthcoming events and meetings as well as to give needed directions and instructions.

This year's contest for membership included students from all grades, and out of the sixty people who tried out, sixteen were chosen for such qualities as definiteness of speaking voice, clearness, enthusiasm, and enunciation. These were divided into teams of two, who gave the announcements for the week, and by rotation each team was in charge for a week.

The purposes of this commission are to serve the school, to see that the daily announcements are carried out, to reach all of the students, to give training in speech for its members, to improve voices, and to bring about better speech habits.

S. O. S. CLUB

Eugene Lindbloom, Jeri Whitcomb, and Dean Meinke perform magic in the chemistry lab.

S. O. S.! Only in this case, S. O. S. doesn't mean "help." It stands for "Students of Science" club, which was newly organized this year by Mr. Robert Gradin and students who were interested in science activities outside of class. Membership is open to all students who either have taken or are taking biology.

Members of the club meet twice a month. One meeting consists of programs featuring science movies or speakers qualified to speak on subjects of interest to the group; the other meeting is devoted to discussions in which the members exchange information about individual projects. Some of their projects included work in radio, photography, chemistry, and taxidermy.

Charter members of the club are: Dean Meinke, Eugene Lindbloom, Bill Glew, Herbert Hemmilla, Adrian Swenson, Leslie Lahti, Jerry Zank, Bob Jones, and Clyde Landrum.

Bulging biceps, school sweaters, and that athletic look describe . . . what else but the "S" club?

Most amusing athletic event of the year, the donkey basketball game, is sponsored by the "S" club boys. It is a boys versus girls affair with these courageous Centralites mounting donkeys to provide a hilarious sight for the audience. A few points are tallied, but for once, the focus of attention is not on the score but on the action between shots.

The "S" club organization is open to all fellows who have participated in football or basketball and have been awarded a letter. The purpose of this club is to stimulate a greater interest in all athletics. This tends to promote higher standards of conduct both on and off the field of play.

Coach Harry Conley serves as adviser for the group. No officers were elected by the club.

STRING ENSEMBLE

Overtures, waltzes and easy marches . . . these types of music are played by the Junior Band.

The Junior Band, led by Mr. S. Brinley Shaw, was organized around 1942, an outgrowth of the former Junior Orchestra. In the present set up, the Junior Band is a "feeder" for the Senior Band. After members attain certain standards, they become eligible for membership in the advanced group. This band is conducted on a class basis—full credit for full time, half credit for half time.

Although Junior Band members made no public appearances this year, they aimed at performing in future programs.

Getting to school at eight o'clock in the morning twice a week is no fun, but that is what Central High School's String Ensemble has been doing all year. Yes, this hard-working organization has certainly been busy!

The ensemble arrangement consists of first violins, second violins, the string bass, violas and cellos. Members of the ensemble are selected by Mr. William Keller, director.

The String Ensemble played several selections for the student-faculty Christmas program. In addition to this, the group entertained at various places outside of school. Their services were rendered willingly.

TRIPLE TRIO

VOCAL ENSEMBLE

Not present: Shaw, D. Carlson.

First tenor, first bass, second tenor, second bass . . . the outstanding students in Senior Choir are chosen for the Vocal Ensemble. According to their voice range, the students are assigned their parts. There are twelve students in the ensemble, three for each part. As a vocal group, these "above par" singers are more flexible than the much larger choir.

Singing at small club gatherings and at churches, the Vocal Ensemble fulfilled many engagements. Using the same techniques and qualities of the choir, these students received an extended music course. Mr. Louis Meier is the director.

Sweet music, sweet smiles, sweet girls . . . create the charm of the Triple Trio. Under the direction of Mr. Louis Meier, the Triple Trio entertained appreciative audiences throughout the school year. This year, because of such close competition, two trios were selected. Outstanding performances were at the Christmas and spring concerts along with several appearances at church and club gatherings.

SENIOR BAND

Master of the Senior Band

. . . Mr. S. Brinley Shaw

"March on Old Central," "Roll On to Victory," "On Wisconsin" . . . these selections were played by the Senior Band at football games, pep assemblies, and basketball games, adding much to the school spirit of Centralites.

The beautiful new outfits worn by the band members this year were the result of a band uniform drive. Money was raised through concerts and a tag day sale.

Popular music, along with classical and marching compositions, has been placed on the programs given by the band. This is a plan followed by many high schools throughout the country nowadays.

Between thirty-five to forty performances were given by the band this year. Most outstanding was its appearance at the depot last fall when President Truman stopped at Superior during his campaign tour. The only out-of-town performance was given at Duluth Denfeld High School.

As Father Time marked off the passing of another year, he must have noted with pride the great progress of our school band.

SENIOR ORCHESTRA

"Start five measures before letter B. Please remember that 'D' is sharped. Don't forget to retard measure forty . . ." No school curriculum would be complete without an orchestra. Central is no exception. Under the able leadership of Mr. William Keller, our school boasts one of the best high school orchestras in the area.

The members of the group played for school assemblies as well as for social functions outside of school. They mastered famous compositions: such as, Mozart's "Piano Concerto" and "A Flute Concerto" and Vivaldi's "Violin Concerto."

Approximately forty-five Centralites were members of the Senior Orchestra this year, making it one of the largest organizations in Central. Quite a bit of strenuous work was involved, but the members enjoyed it.

Officers for the year were: Jane Wahlstrom, president; Bob Anderson, vice-president; Betty Barbo, secretary; and Jean Rothwell, treasurer.

Music hath charms . . . so hath Delores.

Poise, enthusiasm, vocal ability . . . these qualities describe the Senior Choir, directed by Mr. Louis Meier. Whether caroling in the halls at Christmas or appearing on programs, the members wholeheartedly gave their best.

Audiences eagerly awaited the performances of this a cappella group. The excellence of their arrangements and the variety of their selections provided fine entertainment. A few tunes which brought smiles to listeners' faces this year were "Talle High! Talle Ho!," an original composition by Mr. Meier, "Buttons and Bows," and "Make Mine Country Style."

Choir members performed at the Christmas and spring concerts, at club meetings, and at various places throughout the city. A tradition choir custom is to carol through the halls the week before Christmas vacation. Students eagerly await this gay treat.

Small ensembles from the choir were kept busy making appearances at various civic, church, and social functions.

ECHO PHOTOGRAPHERS

Jim Van Buskirk develops some films.

Lyle Olson makes enlargements.

Picture orders, deadlines, and more picture orders . . . these are a few of the problems overcome by the Echo photographers. Under the leadership of Mr. Joseph Sitek, school life again was portrayed through the art of photography.

The capable Echo photographers were always on hand at social and sporting events to take pictures for the Echo. A new system of having a photographer on duty in the dark room each hour of the day was introduced. These photographers have worked long hours toward the completion of this book. If this Echo succeeds in capturing life at Central pictorially, these boys deserve the praise.

CUSTODIANS

Shiny clean floors, shoveled walks, rooms neat and clean . . . Central's custodians are always busy keeping our school a place we can be proud of. When you enter the school on a cold winter morning, you instantly feel the warm and friendly atmosphere. The floors are swept and the rooms are in order for the business of the day. At noon, students rush to the lunchrooms to eat hearty hot lunches provided by our lunchroom workers.

A few familiar sights remembered are Mr. Gus Nelson, mopping first floor halls and greeting everyone with a cheery "hello," and Mr. Martin Moe, lending students a hand when they had trouble with lockers. Mr. Bob Larson was a ready, willing, and able assistant when students decorated the large gymnasium for dances.

The friendly ways and fine work of our custodians are greatly appreciated.

VISUALS AIDS

Off go the lights, on goes the projector . . . flashing before our eyes is a picture of today's lesson. When students are dismissed by their teacher to go to the projection room, they probably don't realize the work involved for the Visual Aids boys.

Visual Aids adviser, Mr. Reinholt Moe, instructs the boys who volunteer for the work to handle capably all of the intricate mechanisms of the projectors. After acquiring skill in operating the equipment, they show students a variety of excellent educational movies. In an efficient manner, they keep films reeling in the movie room.

A weekly schedule is worked out by them and their adviser. The students are most grateful to the Visual Aids for a job well done.

Twirlers perform for spectators.

Pert, pretty, and peppy . . . these qualities describe the twirling squad of Central. The precision timing of these girls provided eye-catching entertainment at football and basketball games. Lee Etta Bloomster and Joanne Anderson deserve credit for their leadership.

Gratitude is extended to the twirlers and Mrs. Marion Thompson, their adviser, for their fine contribution to school entertainment.

Fun in healthful activity.

Grace and skill

Featuring basketball, twirling, tumbling, and archery, the newly organized Girls' Athletic Association undertook activities for sports-loving girls. Mrs. Marion Thompson and Miss Lois Kasmak are co-advisers.

G. A. A. promotes good sportsmanship through encouraging active participation in sports of all kinds. In keeping with this purpose, Central's G. A. A. cordially invited all girls who were interested to join the organization. The honor of wearing a G. A. A. letter, for which 900 points are required, is a goal toward which members strive.

"All In the April Evening," "Serbian Folk Song," "I'll See You Again" . . . the golden voices of the Melodeers are heard floating from Room 208.

A main spoke in the wheel of Central's musical activities, the Melodeers are in demand at all times. Their many excellent performances prove that they have been well selected and matched by their instructor, Miss Lillian Berg.

This year, in the Freshmen Choir, there was so much good talent that it was difficult to pick the Melodeers. Eighteen girls were chosen and divided into two groups.

HARMONEERS

"In Jungle Land," "Who's That Tapping at My Door," "Strike Up the Band" . . . these, along with several other pieces, were presented by the Harmoneers throughout the year.

Rehearsals were held during the noon hour or after school under the direction of Miss Lillian Berg. Although this group was late in getting started, it made many appearances at affairs outside of school.

Only freshmen boys are eligible for this organization. The Harmoneers vocal group consists of tenor and bass voices selected from the Freshman Choir.

Junior-Senior Prom

May has gone, and with it the 1949 Junior-Senior Prom. However, delightful memories of the year's outstanding social event will always remain.

Tall, blonde Glen Reed and slim, pretty Barbara Andresen made a striking couple, indeed, as they led the Grand March. For King Glen and Queen Barbara the big thrill of being crowned the royal couple will be a well remembered moment of their high school days.

The smooth music of Walt Evans' band made dancing easy for gaily attired couples. The gymnasium was filled with an atmosphere of "Moonlight and Roses."

Jack Josephson adds laugh to "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay."

Reed section of Senior Band provides delightful music.

In presenting new football and basketball teams to the high school foes of the surrounding areas, Central has been well out in front in sport highlights. Both the football and basketball teams were made up of grand groups of boys . . . playing their hearts out to win.

The football season might be classed as being reasonably successful, while the basketball season was lauded as outstanding. The Vikings copped the Little Big Ten conference title and . . . by virtue of having won it for the third time . . . received permanent possession of the coveted McNelis trophy. Their outstanding play also qualified them for participation in the regional tournament held in Hurley. The cheerleaders did a fine job promoting school spirit and pep at the games.

Season's Summary

Central High Vikings, coached for the twentieth year by Harry Conley, came through a rugged season with a good record, though they were at a disadvantage with only one letterman returning from last year and with the loss of Earl Rockstad, who suffered a broken leg in the Central-Duluth Cathedral game Sept. 16. During the course of the season Central won three games, lost three, and tied one. The Conleymen racked up a season's total of 80 points, while their opponents scored a total of 76. Leading the Central scoring was Rod Lundberg, who struck paydirt five times for a total of 30 points. George McAuley and George Van Buren each made three touchdowns and Bob Ledin made one. Don Polglase kicked six extra points out of 12 attempts. George Van Buren was the team's captain.

DENFELD DOWNS CENTRAL

Denfeld downed the Vikings by a margin of 26 to 6. Hren, Daniels and company were too much for the Centralites.

One of Denfeld's touchdowns came when Charlie Hren tossed a 26-yard pass to Jack Carlson, who caught it on the 50-yard line. He flipped a lateral to Ed Ciebiera, who dashed the remaining distance. Their other three touchdowns were scored by Dick Bianco and Charlie Hren.

Central's marker came in the third quarter when Robert "Butch" Ledin plunged over from the two-yard line. That was all the touchdowns the Denfeld eleven allowed to the Vikings. From there on it was the Hunters' game all the way.

OLD ABES SQUEEZE OUT TIE

Season opener for the Vikings ended in a 6-all tie with Eau Claire. Rod Lundberg dashed over from the seven-yard line early in the second quarter for the Vikings' six points. Don "Pug" Polglase failed to convert.

The Vikings threatened repeatedly, but fumbles kept them from scoring again. Late in the last period, Eau Claire recovered a fumble from the Vikings' 35-yard line. They turned this miscue into a touchdown, scoring in a series of running plays. Don Rasmus crossed the all-important stripe from his "T" formation quarterback spot on a sneak, with the clock reading only six minutes remaining. Earl Rockstad blocked the try for the extra point.

VIKINGS DROF DULUTH CATHEDRAL

In the Vikings' second start, they tasted the spoils of victory. Central's first touchdown came when Rod Lundberg dashed over the goal line to score standing up. The record touchdown came on a pass from Pug Polglase to George Van Buren, who caught it in the end zone. Polglase kicked his second extra point. Central's other two points came when Chuck Visina, Cathedral quarterback, was tackled by Dick Ruby behind the goal for a safety.

Cathedral's touchdown came on a pass from Chuck Visina to Ed Morrissey, who raced 35 yards to score, with about eight seconds remaining in the first half. Earl Rockstad, star end, received a fractured leg early in the second period. Throughout the game Polglase's passes sparked the Conleymen.

McAuley scores against East.

CENTRAL'S POWER TOO GREAT FOR ASHLAND

A determined Viking team defeated an aggressive Ashland football club, 20-6. Superior Central was sparked by the speedy running of George Van Buren and Rodney Lundberg who scored all of Central's touchdowns for the evening. Central's heavy line operated at will in the Oredockers' backfield and at all times slowed the Ashland attack to a standstill.

Early in the first quarter Rodney Lundberg electrified the crowd with a 53-yard run into the scoring territory. Polglase converted and Central led 7-0. Then came an amazing run by George Van Buren which covered a distance of 61 yards to put the game on ice for Central. Later, with only a few minutes remaining, Polglase flipped a short pass to Van Buren, standing in the end zone, to stop Central's scoring for the night.

ORIENTALS CHALLENGE VIKINGS

Superior East scored an upset over Central's Vikings by a score of 19-14 in the annual Homecoming game.

Pug Polglase threw the two passes that George McAuley took over the line for Central's score. Pug converted for the two points. Whitney Archambault, Butch Ledin, and Bob Anderson had a busy game holding East's line back. George McAuley made the first touchdown on a 16-yard pass, and the second goal was made on a nine-yard pass.

East's touchdowns were made by Denny Smith and Wilfred LePage. It was a close game to the final gun with the Vikings playing a fine game of ball.

CENTRAL LOSES ON SLIPPERY FIELD

On a muddy field, October 15, the Duluth Central Trojans stopped a hard-fighting Central team, 12-0. The Vikings undoubtedly played one of the best games of the year against the strong Duluth team. The first Trojan touchdown came on a flashy 60-yard run in the second quarter. Then late in the third quarter Duluth pushed over the final touchdown climaxing a 30-yard drive.

Pug Polglase and George Van Buren played standout roles behind a determined Central line, but all to no avail. Throughout the entire game it was quite evident that both teams were hampered by the heavy wind and rain that made the ball extremely slippery at times.

Vikings polish maneuvers..

MIDGETS BOW TO CENTRAL

The Central Vikings handed the Hurley Midgets their first loss of the season. Although the Vikings came close, they did not score in the first half.

Central's first touchdown came in the third quarter when Rod Lundberg went over from the three-yard line. Rod also clicked for another touchdown in the last quarter.

Final touchdown for the home team came on a six-yard pass from Pug Polglase to George McAuley, end.

From then on it was Central's game all the way. The game ended in Central's favor by a score of 18-0.

This game completed the season for the Vikings with a standing record of three wins, three losses, and one tie.

Season's Summary

The Central High Vikings concluded their 1948-1949 basketball schedule with 12 wins and four losses. The Centralites nabbed the Little Big Ten Conference with eight wins and one loss. The mythical city championship was captured with three wins and one loss.

Coach Norman Olson's boys played top-flight basketball all year. They started the season with a bang, beating the favored Duluth Central Trojans, 42 to 26.

In their second game, the Vikings turned back the Cloquet Lumberjacks by the score of 49 to 30. The end of the third game found the much praised Superior Cathedral Panthers at the short end of a 48-38 score.

Centralites were beaten for the first time when they traveled to Eau Claire, where the Old Abes beat them, 48-36. Central cagers made a quick comeback, however, by defeating the Morgan Park Wildcats, 52-34, thus winning their fourth straight L. B. T. game.

For their next game the Vikings took a trip to Ashland and defeated the Oredockers, 52-44. In their seventh game, the Centralites squeezed a win out of East High by the narrow margin of 31 to 30.

The Vikings traveled to Minneapolis for an exhibition game in the University of Minnesota field house, where they beat St. Cloud Tech, 38-32. Central journeyed to Two Harbors for its ninth game and downed the highly praised Agates, 40-31.

The Vikings suffered their second defeat of the year at Hurley, losing to the Midgets, 39-34. They quickly redeemed themselves, however, when they took an overtime contest from Eau Claire, 57-56. After this game Eau Claire dropped from fifth to 12th place.

The Vikings followed through by defeating the Duluth Central Trojans, 41 to 37, at Duluth. In their twelfth contest, the Vikings lost to the East High Orientals, 37-31.

In their next game, Central was pressed hard by Superior Cathedral Panthers but managed to come out on top, to the tune of 30 to 28. The Ashland Oredockers took a trip to Central and were handed their second defeat by the Vikings, 51-40.

In their last game on the schedule, Central men traveled to La Crosse Central and were beaten, 61-59, in a hard fought contest.

In the sub-regional tournament play, the Vikings beat the Ashland Oredockers in the first game, but in the finals were edged out by the Hurley Midgets, thus ending a basketball season of which they can be proud.

Cheerleaders

"We got the pep! We got the steam! We got the coach! We got the team! Pep, steam, coach, team! Fifteen rahs for our team!" This familiar yell was heard from our six petite cheerleaders during the football and basketball seasons. These girls made a charming appearance due to their similarity in size.

Our cheerleaders, this year, endeavored to bring to us a new method of presenting their cheers. Through diligent practice and constructive criticism, they became known as a hard-working group of girls. Mrs. Marion Thompson, their adviser, spent many hours instructing the squad in new cheers which made each game alive and exciting.

Girls

In colorful peasant costume, Gordonna and Barbara do a folk dance.

Grace and skill on the basketball court.

Sports

Under the fine leadership of Mrs. Marion Thompson, the girls' physical education classes engaged in a variety of sports this year. Health and fun were the goals of this athletic program.

First in the series of activities were volleyball, soccer, tumbling, calisthenics, and health studies. New in the curriculum this year were ice skating, track, and archery. The girls learned folk and social dancing, too. Basketball, always a favorite sport, started at the beginning of the second semester and resulted in spirited games to determine the championship team.

During the noon hours and after school, ping pong contests were held. On Friday afternoons modern dancing took the place of games.

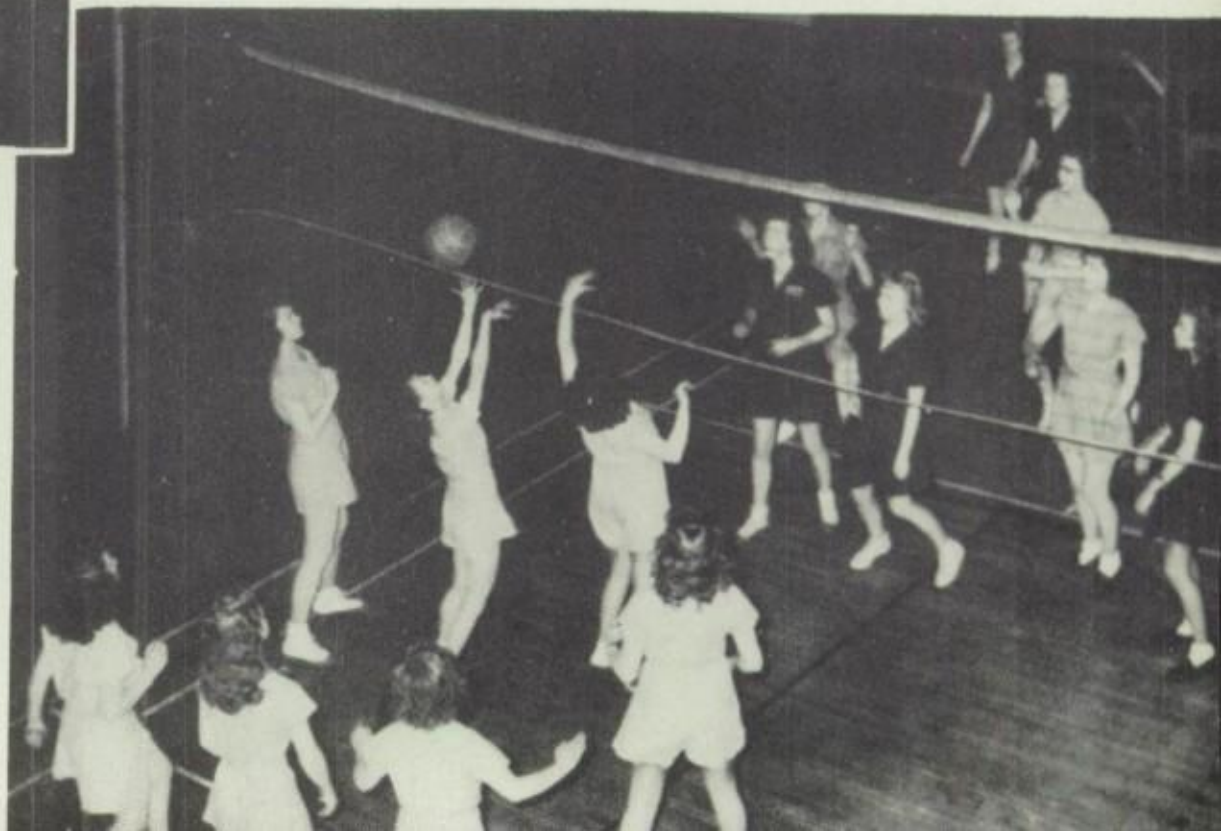

Such an active program provided exciting times for the girls, who always kept this thought in mind: it is not whether you win or lose, but how well you play the game that counts.

The crowd surged forward as the parade passed. The rhythm of the big bass drum could be heard long before the parade arrived. The enthusiasm of the crowd rose as the rhythm became stronger. Yes, excited Centralites were sponsoring their annual Viking Day parade.

Leading the parade were Queen Barbara Meteraud and her attendants, who were followed by the neatly uniformed, purple and white band and the gaily decorated floats.

The floats, sponsored by the homeroom and clubs, showed originality of slogans and themes, some of which were:

"We'll clean them up tonight."

"We'll lick them tonight."

"Put 'em in a box, tie 'em with a ribbon,
And throw 'em in the deep blue sea."

"We'll mow them down."

"Plow 'em under."

After a thrilling game, which Central lost to East, the large gymnasium was filled to capacity for the coronation ceremony. King Pug Polglase, star quarterback, and Queen Barbara led the Grand March. Then, under the spell of soft music and soft lights, the day was finished.
